"Hotaluna" is a mega cruiser with an innovative and near-future form, produced by Japanese manga artist and author Leiji Matsumoto. Renowned and awarded architect Yuko Nagayama was put in charge of the design, allowing passengers to get a view of the Tokyo bay while feeling with the breeze from the roof deck. A faint light is emitted from the rear window glass as the light changes from dusk to evening, causing the ship to shine like a firefly. Enjoy a wonderful moment in this fantastic place.

※Ship might be changed.

★Asakusa

Asakusa is a downtown center in which the atmosphere of old Edo (former name of Tokyo) is still preserved. The atmosphere and feeling of the area from the classic Edo period still remains to this day. The main attraction is Sensoji Temple, built in the 7th century. Take a casual stroll through the Nakamise-dori street, filled with unique Japanese souvenirs and sweets. Enjoy the feeling of a Japanese downtown area.

Located in the Oshiage area of Sumida-ku, Tokyo, Tokyo Skytree is a towering radio tower with a height of 634m, making it the world's tallest free standing tower. The tower features two observation areas, located 350m and 450m above the ground.
