CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

The ICCC conference has been held 7 times since 2010, in the UK, France, New Zealand and China. It has been recognised as a medium-sized biennial international conference to exchange the latest information about the cutting-edge research results on the cold chain and sustainability.

To establish a truly sustainable cold chain, it is necessary to activate discussion on global food supply chain to achieve energy conservation, GHG reduction, elimination of food loss and waste, guarantee of food safety and quality.

ICCC2024, to be held in Tokyo, will be a good opportunity to bring together researchers and industrialists from all fields of refrigeration to discuss how to promote sustainability on the cold chain.

CONTENTS OF THE CONFERENCE

The topics of technical session are as follows:

Cold Chain

Process and equipment design
Storage, transportation and logistics
Modelling and predictive tools
Food quality and food safety
Food science and food engineering
Innovations in retail refrigeration
Cold chain in developing countries

Sustainability

Low GWP Refrigerants
Innovative technologies for carbon neutrality
Life cycle assessment on food supply chain
